

Ownership of media must remain diversified, to preserve the independence of the American press. Economic factors should not be a consideration when it comes to reporting of the news and the dissemination of information. Our great country was founded on the principles of a free press, and concentrating ownership of media by a few large entities is contrary to that notion. My votes in all future elections will go to the candidate whose stance on this issue is in agreement with my view, as explained above. Thank you.
